

Where's My Second Economic Impact Payment from the IRS?

The Coronavirus Response and Relief Supplemental Appropriations Act of 2021 was recently enacted to provide additional economic relief to American consumers and businesses during the COVID-19 pandemic. A provision includes sending additional government payments called Economic Impact Payments to eligible Americans.

The IRS has begun distributing these payments through direct deposit and U.S. Postal Service mail. For those who have provided the IRS information for electronic payments, their payments will be processed by January 15, 2021. Electronic payments provide the fastest delivery of funds.

For those who have not provided the IRS information for electronic payments, the IRS will mail paper checks starting on December 30, 2020 through January 15, 2021, and debit cards through January 24, 2021.

IRS Tool - Get My Payment

The IRS has a tool—Get My Payment—to provide a method to check the status of your Economic Impact Payments. The IRS is updating the tool with new information to be available in early January 2021. An additional feature of Get My Payment allows eligible persons the ability to provide their current bank account information and address.

You can find this tool at <https://www.irs.gov/coronavirus/economic-impact-payments>.

What if my bank account information or address has changed?

If eligible, you may use the IRS Get My Payment tool to enter your current bank account information for direct deposit or to update your address.

Because the federal government is distributing payments quickly, the IRS will send any payment for which you are eligible by direct deposit to your account on record. If your direct deposit payment is returned to the IRS because the account on record is closed, the IRS will search the Get My Payment database for your new account information.

If you have not provided information for electronic payments, the IRS will mail a paper check or debit card to your address on record. If your address changed after your last tax return filing, notify the post office. If the mailing is returned to the IRS as undeliverable, the IRS will search the Get My Payment database for your new account information. You may also complete and submit a Form 8822 to the IRS to change your address. For more information, visit <https://www.irs.gov/taxtopics/tc157>.

If you are eligible for a payment and do not receive one for any reason, you may claim it by filing a 2020 tax return in the year 2021. Economic Impact Payments are an advance payment of a Recovery Rebate Credit on the 2020 Form 1040 for Form 1040-SR.

Check for your payment using Online and Mobile Banking

To check if an Economic Impact Payment has been deposited into your account, use our online and mobile banking services available 24/7. The direct deposit payments may appear in your account as pending until the initial official payment date of January 4, 2021. Please be aware that you may experience latency or inability to login immediately due to the large number of customers who are using our systems to check on the status of their payments.

You may also call your local GNBank office, or dial our call center at (888) 675-8223 to check on the status of your payment or request assistance with online and mobile banking services.
